DIGITAL KIDS: INNOVATE AND CREATE WITH THE IPAD

Instructor: M2Academy

Does your child enjoy using technology, but not necessarily interested in building it from scratch? Then this is the right camp for you! No tech skills needed! We do not design robots, assemble Legos, or engineer bridges; instead, we use basic existing and emerging technology as tools to complete meaningful projects. In this camp, students will have amazing opportunities to produce claymation videos, design digital art, stream self-directed movies, engage in digital storytelling, animate digital cartoons, record their own voice, construct multi-media presentations, and more - all using intuitive digital apps and devices. Students will be encouraged to then apply and integrate these important tools in their real world life - whether it is for personal or school activities. Our instructors follow a carefully designed curriculum that promotes technology as a positive tool for production, not just hardware for consumption. Students will utilize critical 21st century skills during every lesson - such as collaboration, creativity, problem solving and communication. Additionally, students will learn the importance of being safe, practicing proper digital citizenship and remembering to always use kind 'netiquette' in this globally-connected world. Feel free to bring in an iPad from home or use one provided by m2academy.
